

UNAVCO Community Scientist Andria Bilich Receives 2007 Bradford Parkinson Award

The Institute of Navigation (<http://www.ion.org/>) presented its Bradford Parkinson Award for the year 2007 to Dr Andria Bilich of the National Geodetic Survey. This award is given annually to honor an outstanding graduate student in the field of Global Navigation Satellite Systems.

Andria received her PhD from the Department of Aerospace Engineering Sciences at the University of Colorado Boulder in 2006. In her thesis work she was advised by Professor Kristine M. Larson. Her dissertation was titled:

Improving the Precision and Accuracy of Geodetic GPS: Applications to Multipath and Seismology

Congratulations to Andria!